Alex Ossadnik is Ballet Master and Associate Academy Director for Ballet Idaho. He was born in Soviet occupied East Germany and attended the Palucca School in Dresden from 1979-1987 where he was trained in the Vaganova Method of classical ballet, as well as modern, jazz, folkloric dance and improvisation. He joined the ballet company of the German National Theatre Weimar where he was a principal dancer at the age of 20. After the collapse of the East Block in 1989, he joined Ballet Theatre de Bordeaux (France) under the direction of Paolo Bortoluzzi. As Ballet Master, Ballet Director and Choreographer Mr. Ossadnik has worked over the past fifteen years with artists of the Alberta Ballet, Boston Ballet, Colorado Ballet, Joffrey Ballet, Nevada Ballet Theatre, New York City Ballet, Oregon Ballet Theatre, Pennsylvania Ballet and Compania Nacional de Danza de Mexico.
